

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

By ROBERT PATTERSON

Let's Get To Work!

The declaration of President Roosevelt—"We will not send our men to take part in European wars. But we will repel aggression against the United States or the western hemisphere"—shows itself to be more than astute politics. It is blunt recognition of the fact that an army of 50,000 or 500,000 men could bring little support to beleaguered Britain in her perilous struggle with Germany. The sole question confronting the nation today has nothing to do with "European entanglements," "meddling in other people's business," and other dead cats which have been filling the air to the neglect of the only real problem and the one crucial job—that of arming this nation with all the speed and effectiveness at our command. On that task there can be no division of opinion, for at stake is the security of this country and this hemisphere. The price of boondoggling, muddlesome delay and internal disunity is written, where all may see, on the gravestone of the republic of France. Let's get to work now!

In Union Is Our Strength

A momentous day in America's history is at hand with the opening of the Havana conference on July 20. The aim of that fateful gathering will be to weld the 21 American nations into a common defensive front. Its success will strike a hard blow at any dreams of conquest now held by the Axis powers and give this nation much needed time to speed the armament program toward completion without fear of challenge. The failure of this Pan-American conference to achieve such unity—and Axis diplomats in Latin America have been zealously working to make it a fiasco—would be an equally hard blow to us. Impartial observers have stated that the economic, military, and political issues are so complex that a united front of American nations is only remotely possible. Nevertheless, the Latin American countries will find it difficult to escape the hard truth that full cooperation of all nations in this hemisphere is the only guarantee of their future independence. It is still true: We must all hang together or we are all likely to hang separately!

A Lesson For Labor

Peace in the ranks of labor is today more vital than ever before to the nation's security. But while the chieftains of the A. F. L. and the C. I. O. argue over the "irreconcilable differences" between their organizations, events in Kenosha, Wis.—among other places—have made this feud look slightly ridiculous. In that bustling factory town of 50,000 population, 2000 workers are members of the C. I. O. and 5000 of the A. F. L. Members of those "rival" groups, it was reported in despatches last week, jointly publish a weekly paper, work together in the same factories, attend the same council meeting and have no jurisdictional disputes. Five years ago, when the split in

The Footlighters Start Rehearsals For Benefit Plays

Rehearsals were started Monday evening on a one act comedy "Be a Little Cuckoo" by Howard Reed, by members of The Footlighters. Rehearsals for another one act comedy "When the Wife's Away" by Ray W. Rampton will start this evening and will have six members of The Footlighters taking part.

The children who were asked to take part in "Tom Thumb's Wedding" are requested to be present at the hall in the B. O. Curry building Friday (tomorrow) afternoon at 2:30 for a rehearsal.

The three entertainments will make up a program tentatively scheduled for the evening of August 30, for the benefit of the Congregational and Methodist churches Sunday schools. Arrangements for place and time have not as yet been completed. All three are being directed by Mrs. Mabel Keesling.

The cast of characters for "Be a Little Cuckoo" is Anna, Marion Nelson; Marjorie, Helen Payne; Harriet, Betty Sewell; Mrs. Parker, Alma Levertson; and Lizzie, Merle Knappen.

The cast for "When the Wife's Away" includes LBen Howard as Walter Carlton; Lenore Weaver, his wife; Joan; Archie Keesling, Walter's friend, Johnny Miller; Elfrieda Anderson, Johnny's girl friend, Marie Norton; Theodora Herold, Cleopatra; and Ira Grim, Dr. Killen.

Richard Field Operated Upon For Appendicitis

Richard Field, youngest of the Carl Field family, was operated upon for appendicitis Saturday morning at Bryan Medical Center, Texas.

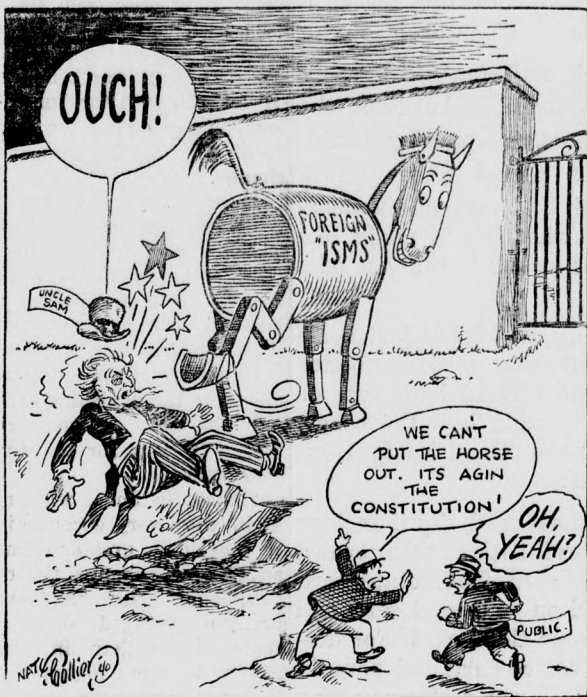

The Fields, who have been on an extended trip, were on their return from Florida and were visiting Dr. George E. Potter, a friend at College Station near Bryan, when Richard's condition demanded an operation. He had had an attack while in Detroit.

Word from his father, received Wednesday, reported a satisfactory condition, and stated that probably he and the other children would continue their journey, arriving home the 27th, with Mrs. Field and Richard returning by train when he was able to travel.

Mrs. James Trowbridge (nee Barbara Baird) of Yuba City is spending a few day here visiting at the Ross Trowbridge home.

The Footlighters will hold a second barbecue in a series of summer outings at the Fortini ranch on Uvas road Sunday afternoon, July 28. Two committees headed by Jack Murdock and Mrs. D. H. Cramer are completing plans for the affair. Members and guests attending are asked to bring their own table service.

HE WHO GETS KICKED

Jack Anderson Honor Guest At Barbecue

Congressman John Z. Anderson was the honored guest Sunday at a barbecue given by his volunteer publicity committee for members of the press of the five counties comprising the eighth congressional district. Held at Anderson's ranch near San Juan, the get-together was attended by some 60 newsmen and their families.

Speaking briefly at the conclusion of an excellent outdoor dinner, Congressman Anderson, contemplating a five-day visitation throughout his district, gave his reasons for believing congress should remain in session.

"Congress should stay on the job in Washington," Anderson said. "There's a lot of money to be spent, and we should be there to see that it's carefully spent—which hasn't always been the case in the past."

"The public sentiment seems to be that the money to prepare the country must be spent, and taxes increased to make it up. Under the circumstances it would be absurd for any congressman to campaign on a program of reduced taxation, and I have no intention of doing anything like that. We have to raise the money, and it's about time the whole tax-raising structure of the country was revised."

"We are asking aircraft manufacturers and shipbuilders to increase production, but we can't expect them to get anywhere until we take off restrictive legislation. Right now it's our job to see where those restrictions are, and what we can do about them."

"If this war should suddenly end we would face a tremendous readjustment—another reason for keeping congress in session."

Mr. and Mrs. John Duncan had as dinner guests Wednesday evening, Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Anderson and family.

Ruth James' Engagement Is Announced

The engagement of Miss Ruth James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. James of Casey road to William Playter Robertson was announced at an informal outdoor supper last week. The information was disclosed in tiny white wedding bells in miniature French bouquets.

Miss James has been attending San Jose State college where she belongs to Kappa Kappa Sigma sorority. The fiancé is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton S. Robertson of Winchester road. A graduate of San Jose State junior college he is connected with a construction company of Oakland.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold D. Cramer and infant daughter, Anita, arrived Tuesday evening from Moscow, Ida., for a several weeks visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Cramer, Winchester road.

Robert Rees, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Hedegard was brought home Sunday by ambulance from O'Connor sanitarium where he was taken after a fall from the roof of his home, corner of Esther and Hamilton avenues. In the fall, one bone of the leg was broken and the other badly splintered, and an artery punctured. He is convalescing satisfactorily but it will be several weeks before the cast can be removed.

Mrs. Bessie Cook, sister of Mrs. G. E. Jeffers, who has acquired a Ph. D. in research work in dietetics at the U. C. at Berkeley, has accepted a position in the university at Knoxville, Tenn., where she will teach in the research department beginning in August.

Miss Katharine Wood, a former resident here, and who still has a group of piano pupils here yearly, is one of a number of San Jose musicians who are attending the Bach music festival in Carmel this week.

Marriage Held At Charming Afternoon Rites

Mrs. Hazel Rohan of Campbell is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Jacqueline and Robert Willis Brydon, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Brydon of Campbell.

The wedding took place Sunday afternoon, July 14, at a pretty ceremony celebrated at four o'clock at the home of the bridegroom's parents on Campbell avenue, with the Rev. David Todd Gillmor of Los Gatos officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her maternal uncle, R. Lyman of Campbell, wore a smart traveling costume of beige and white with white accessories, and a shoulder bouquet of white camellias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. D. M. Atkinson (Jeanne Rohan) of Bolinas was her sister's matron of honor, and Hugh Cramer of Campbell attended Mr. Brydon as best man.

Miss Olga Brydon, sister of the bridegroom played "The Sunshine of Your Smile" and "Kashmiri" from the "Indian Love Lyrics," and the "Lohengrin Wedding March" and accompanied her sister, Miss Nora Brydon who sang "Oh Promise Me."

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion and the ceremony was held before a large fireplace, artistically banked with white chignon daises and gladioli, while white tapers were used on the mantle.

A buffet luncheon was served to the bridal party and thirty guests, the bride's table being appointed in white and silver, tall tapers and gladioli forming the centerpiece.

After a brief honeymoon at Lake Tahoe the newlyweds will make their home in San Jose, where the groom is employed.

Two Campbell People Killed In Train-Auto Crash

A train-auto crash took the lives of two Campbell ranch workers Wednesday evening as they were returning from their first days work of pear picking.

The accident occurred on a private roadway near the Bracher Fruit company ranch on Kifer road. Traveling south on the lane the rear of the sedan driven by Frank Miranda, 23, son of Manuel Miranda of North Union avenue, was struck by a San Jose bound passenger train.

Joseph Frecano, 50, of Minna street was thrown from the car and killed instantly. Miranda was also flung from the machine, both men landing in a berry patch. The demolished car was carried 60 yards along the track before falling aside.

Miranda was taken to O'Connor sanitarium but died shortly after arrival.

Kiwanians Hear W. H. Brownlee At Ladies' Night

Campbell Kiwanians, ladies and other visitors heard about and saw demonstrated by W. H. Brownlee, methods by which a large group of crooks, designated by police and detectives as "check artists," succeed in defrauding people of this country of vast sums, amounting to $362,000,000. This is not including bad checks cashed over counters.

The amazing expertness and ease with which these crooks raise amounts or completely erase and rewrite checks, preserving only the original signatures is appalling.

Brownlee who is a crime expert investigator for the government and banks, has learned all the tricks in his many varied investigations and contact with criminals. He also explained methods of pickpockets.

Dr. W. I. Merrill presented the speaker and also his guest, Jimmie Rambo, whose three piano numbers were roundly applauded.

President Herold Morton introduced visiting ladies at the speaker's table and Dr. W. R. Morgan, other visitors.

Guests were Lieutenant-governor and Mrs. Ernest Crook of Watsonville; past Lieutenant-governor and Mrs. Henry Buell of San Jose; Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Morton, San Jose; Mrs. H. C. Smith, Wilbur Morton, Martin Shadle and Homer Hyde.

Bowls of orange and yellow zinnias and other yellow and white flowers decorated the tables and mantle.

Red Cross Unit Organized Here

Mrs. Harold Price of San Jose was in Campbell Tuesday to assist in the organization of a group of women to do Red Cross sewing and knitting.

About forty representatives of the local women's clubs, the churches, high and grammar schools P. T. A.'s met in the grammar school library. Mrs. D. H. Cramer accepted the position of director and Mrs. Ray Wood, secretary.

The directors of the Country Woman's club offered the use of their small building in the rear of the library, which will be open for the first time Tuesday, July 30, at 1 o'clock.

Later if there is need the room will be open as often as necessary to accommodate the workers.

All women who can sew or knit are urged to join in this service. Further notice will appear later.

This organization does not in any way supercede or conflict with the committee receiving contributions to the Red Cross, G. E. Farley, chairman, stated this morning, and also said that money is still greatly needed and very little coming in from Campbell.

UNCLE SAM'S KITTY

Uncle Sam has been footing a great many bills.

Senator Carl Hatch of New Mexico, author of the "Clean Politics" law, proposes that he take on another one.

His novel idea is that presidential campaigns be entirely financed out of the federal treasury, with the government apportioning equal sums to the Republican and Democratic candidates. The aim of Senator Hatch is to put an end to the evils of political slush funds.

None denies the evils or the desirability of ending them, but it may be debatable whether the cure here may not be worse than the crime. The measure of democracy's good health is the degree of active participation by every citizen in the job of electing, supporting, and voting for candidates. In general we have too little, rather than too much, participation in government by the average citizen. Under this proposal, he would play a smaller role than ever.

In this country today, there are undoubtedly millions of persons who have loyally voted their party ticket for years yet never once contributed so much as a dime to their party's coffers. If any compulsory measures in the interests of cleaner politics are to be adopted, why not consider compulsory maximum contributions of ten cents or a quarter from every registered voter? At least, it's an idea!

DEATH OF A DREAM

Twenty years ago, with a membership of 42 countries, the League of Nations was formed. By 1935 its membership, pledged to "promote international cooperation and to achieve international peace and security," had increased to 60 nations. Then the dream of peace on earth began to fade.

Since only last May, the number of employees at the great white limestone Palace of the League at Geneva had dwindled from 206 to 90. Last week, Secretary General Joseph Louis Avenol informed the rest of the staff that there was nothing left for them but to resign, and then he locked the doors of the Palace upon the archives that record a dream destroyed in the heat of human viciousness and the flame of war.

Some day, it must be mankind's hope the spirit of brotherhood among men may bring peace and security to all nations. But for the duration of this dark hour in history, the dream is dead—its splendid Palace become its sepulchre.

NOW WE KNOW

"A hobo," proudly reported Harry "Round the World" Olson last week as he prepared to climb aboard an Oakland hot shot, "will work, a tramp won't, and a bum couldn't." Who said hoboes had no pride? They may have lost class, but certainly not caste!

THE RED MAN RALLIES

The red man is rallying loyally to his white brother's cause. Four full-blooded Indians just signed up in the army in Cheyenne the other day. But their names are going to give the top sergeant an honest-to-goodness workout when he snaps, "Fall in, Privates Nicholas J. Crazy Thunder, Peter T. Bearnose, Sam Hairy Bird, and William A. Chase In the Morning!"

TRY THIS DISH!

When Adolf Hitler returned from the front to Berlin the other day, press dispatches discreetly hinted that the tremendous ovation he received had been pre-arranged by Nazi district leaders in Berlin. These functionaries had ordered citizens to report at the station to greet the Fuehrer with a "spontaneous burst of enthusiasm."

Certainly it is not from these "spontaneous" demonstrations but from the whispered rumors, the popular stories and wry jokes passed along from mouth to mouth that we gain the clearest picture of what life is really like for populations locked in the vise of a dictatorship.

One such story, which has just made its way out of Germany, reveals better than a thousand official hand-outs or phony demonstrations, how the people really feel. It's the "Good Nazis' Recipe" and advises:

You take a meat card, dip it in your egg card and broil both of them brown on your butter card. The potato card is to be cooked on your coal card and covered with your flour card. For desert boil your coffee card and pour in your milk card. If you desire you may dip your sugar card in the coffee card. After the meal, wash your hands in your soap card, and dry them with your general rations card.

So much for glory!

MAINE YIELDS TO CALIFORNIA

Even before the presidential rivals have squared away for their four-month battle, the key position of California in the November election is evident.

Time was when staid old Maine held the spotlight for political prognosticators. But the slogan, "As Maine goes, so goes the nation," is as dead as Bryan's free silver issue. Maine, in that respect has yielded to California. Many political observers in the east and middle west already are basing a grown conviction that the G. O. P. will stage a vigorous comeback and that the race of elephant and donkey for the White House will be neck and neck and decided in a photo finish, on the circumstances that California is now listed in various samplings of public opinion as having suddenly veered from "definitely Democratic" to "doubtful."

There is sound reason for taking California opinion seriously on a national scale. Californians are virtually free of the traditional political dogmas that characterize voters of, say, the deep south or New England. California opinion is flexible, liberal and alert — and has reflected national trends so accurately that in the last ten presidential elections this state has voted with the winner nine times!

The swing of California strongly New Deal to doubtful attests the astonishing swiftness of Wendell Willkie's rise to popularity and confidence. The man's very unorthodoxy—his forthrightness in declaring himself on all issues, his disdain of political hedging, his blunt refusal to trade commitments for political advantages — smacks of the ruggedness of the pioneer west. And, since no President has been elected since 1912 without the vote of California, only the candidates themselves will be studied more closely than California public opinion as the campaign develops. The best bet in politics just now seems: As California goes in 1940—so goes the nation!

A new all-time record is believed to have been set in June shipments of California oranges, despite the fact that the European war continues to play hob with foreign markets, according to the California Fruit Growers Exchange.

More than 8,600 cars of California oranges were moved into fresh fruit channels during the month — 43 per cent more than in June of last year, 34 per cent more than the five-year average.

Exports, however, dropped almost to the vanishing point, only 70 cars, as compared with 976 cars for the five-year average.

"Prices in June, while not high, were very encouraging in view of the greater volume sold," the exchange reports. "Exchange prices on packed oranges averaged about 35 cents higher than in May, nearly 50 cents higher than in June last year, and 90 cents higher than two years ago. The net F. O. G. returns promise to run about 70 per cent greater than the disappointing returns of June last year, despite the great loss of export business."

California's on-coming walnut crop is now estimated by the California Walnut Growers association at 85 per cent of last year's production. The setting in Central and Northern California indicates an outturn of about 95 per cent of last season's production, and in southern California about 75 per cent.

In all districts, the crop is more or less spotted, with some important areas showing a setting as low as 30 per cent of last season's tonnage, while others are better than 100 per cent.

With its check of acreage planted in California this season virtually completed, the California Lima Bean Growers association reports: "The totals are going to show around 53,000 acres planted to baby limas, compared with about 59,000 acres last year and around 93,500 acres to 'regulars,' compared with 94,000 acres last year. California acreage of pinks and blackeyes will be appreciably larger than last year."

As of this date, the cotton crop in California is farther advanced than in any season since cotton became a major California crop, according to the agricultural department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, with similar conditions in Arizona.

The department reports: "Weather conditions were ideal during June in both California and Arizona, with high maximum and satisfactory minimum temperatures. As a result, plant growth has been very rapid and plants are squaring and blooming throughout the districts, with bolls forming on the earliest planted cotton. Barring unforeseen backsets, this condition should be reflected in yields even better than those obtained last season."

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, who is about as popular in California as a Florida grapefruit, is getting ready to blitzkrieg again.

Up in Oregon, where Portland and six other communities recently administered a terrific lacing to Mr. Ickes' proposals for a network of municipally-owned power distribution systems—which he demanded as power outlets for the government's Bonneville dam project—they still refer to the election day debacle as "the blitzkrieg that failed."

But Secretary Ickes, still undaunted, wants to try it again—in California!

Sold a bill of goods by Director of Public Works Frank W. Clark, who convinced him that California voters are better-natured than Oregon voters, Mr. Ickes is said to have reached a decision to demand that a TVA power project be set up as an appendage of the Central Valley Water project.

As the first step in his new blitzkrieg attempt, the Secretary of the Interior plans to turn the heat of the state water authority, whose three elective members—Attorney General Earl Warren, State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson and State Controller Harry B. Riley—have thus far refused to permit any diversion of Central Valley water funds for power purposes. Governor Olson's appointees on the authority—Mr. Clark and Finance Director John Richards—are already in Mr. Ickes' camp.

Representatives of the Federal Bureau of Reclamation have been commissioned by Mr. Ickes to meet with the

"Meet the People" At Geary Theater

"The all American hit musical revue of 1940" has been the unanimous description of the leading national magazines and columnists when writing about "Meet The People," scheduled to open a limited engagement at the Geary theater in San Francisco on Monday evening, July 22. It is the show of young people who have become nationally famous because they made Hollywood take them and like it.

At that time the production, which is a topical musical revue, will have registered a run of 30 weeks in Hollywood, by far the longest ever achieved by any revue on the Pacific coast. When the original company was booked to come north another troupe was recruited and it will carry on at the old stand.

Without exception, the cast is composed of young professionals who had come to Hollywood in quest of fame and fortune but hadn't been able to get a hearing from the moguls of the film industry. Some of them worked occasionally at the studios, but never in more than bit roles, and usually as mere extras.

So, when the word got about that a newly formed organization called the Hollywood Theater Alliance intended to put on a topical revue and would select its cast on the basis of actual talent rather than previous record, virtually all the ambitious youngsters in town flocked to the auditions which were conducted.

The result was the assembling of a cast so brilliant that when the show opened all the studios in town began offering contracts to the youngsters. Only two of the 27 members of the cast deserted the show for the movie gold. Two others also signed long-term contracts but with the proviso that they be permitted to remain with "Meet The People" until the end of the run.

And a number of others have been accepting contracts for single pictures, working in the studios during the day and then doing

Prize Drama to be Given By College

San Jose State college has chosen "Hell Bent For Heaven," Hatcher Hughes' Pulitzer prize drama, as its production for the summer. Presentation dates are July 29 and 30 in the college little theater.

"Hell Bent For Heaven" is perhaps America's most popular melodrama. Its three acts are filled with excitement and unusual characterizations. The story deals with a group of mountaineer folk who escape drowning by a miracle and leave the religious fanatic, who blew up the dam, to die by his own hand. Hair raising incidents and unusual characters identify this drama as one of the most theatrical of its type.

The cast of characters is being portrayed by students of wide experience in dramatic work. James Clancy, director of drama for the State college and veteran of many community, little theater, and professional productions, is playing the role of the hysterical Rufe, religious fanatic. Janey Bronson is playing the kindly mountaineer woman who attempts to protect Rufe from the brutalities of the crude environment. Sid, just returned from the World war is played by Bob Doerr, his father by Ray Ruf and his grandfather by Ely Dragoiu. Jude, in love with Sid is portrayed by Dorothy Leverenz.

The play is under the direction of James Clancy and stage settings and effects will be directed by Peter Mingrone.

Tickets are reserved and may be secured by calling Ballard 7800 or addressing: Speech Department, San Jose State college.

Farmer's Corner

try that the United States is headed for definite over-production of beef cattle. "Signs along that line are fairly definite," reports J. A. McNaughton, general manager of the Los Angeles Union stock yards. "The proportions of cows and heifers now being slaughtered in the United States are below normal, indicating that there is a general tendency to hold back a larger proportion of shestock for breeding purposes. Moreover, fewer calves are being marketed and these apparently are being held back to increase numbers on farms and ranches."

During 1939, however, a new high was set in California in number of animals slaughtered and numbers of meat food products prepared. There were 6,222,810 live-stock slaughtered in 1939—about 232,000 more than in 1938 and 435,000 more than in 1937.

Wool production in California, during 1939, reached 29,132,000 pounds, valued at $6,700,000, with only two states—Texas and Wyoming—having greater production.

Monday evening the fire department was called to superintend a grass fire burning on the H. W. Morton lots on Page street. Chief Ed Genasci is timing the crew in getting to these fires, where an accidental fire could become a serious hazard. Auto drivers and pedestrians are warned to keep out of the way of the fire apparatus and the firemen, both on the way to and at the fire, as they delay the machines and hinder the company, the chief has stated.

er bill was decisively beaten at the recent special session of the legislature.

The Central Valley Project association, representing farmers and water users who fathered the big project, will bitterly oppose any attempt to grab water funds for the power experiment. And San Francisco, smarting under the loss of more than $2,000,000 a year in city revenue from its Hetch Hetchy project, due to Mr. Ickes' intervention, will undoubtedly take a fall out of the Secretary of the Interior just for the sheer joy of it.

Antarctica's Future
To skeptics, critical of costly polar explorations conducted by this country, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, a noted Arctic explorer himself, utters a cautioning word. The great frozen wastes of Antarctica, where the United States is acquiring territory, may well prove, he advises, an important source of petroleum and radium. It must be admitted that explorer Stefansson has history on his side in pointing out that nearly all newly discovered lands have been considered worthless at first. There come to mind Alaska, once known as Seward's folly, with its rich stores of gold, Canada, with its priceless deposits of radium, Pennsylvania, with its great petroleum riches—a product Ben Franklin could conceive of no use for. Clearly Antarctica is worthy of a chance to prove its mettle.

"FLUORESCENT"
What you ought to know about this new Light Source

You hear much about Fluorescent Lighting. You see these slim, luminous tubes of light being used more and more. You see them creating richly glowing color effects on Treasure Island. You see them adding a smartly modern touch to restaurants, theatres, shops and to industrial plants large and small.

WHAT IS FLUORESCENT LIGHT? WHAT ABOUT THIS NEW LIGHT SOURCE? All fluorescent lamps producing this amazingly soft, cool light are tubular in shape and of various lengths and diameters. Unlike ordinary incandescent lamps they have no filament. Light is produced by electricity passing through mercury vapor, creating a radiation which acts on fluorescent (luminous) powders with which the inside of the tubes are coated. These powders are highly efficient converters of this radiation into light.

IS IT PRACTICAL FOR USE EVERYWHERE? Fluorescent lighting is proving to be highly practical in commercial and industrial use where all factors of proper installation have been considered and carried out. It has many advantages. Fixtures designed for its use are smartly modern in appearance. Its tubular lamp makes it ideal for installation in recesses or concealed lighting. It has an amazing efficiency in producing pure colored light. The fluorescent daylight and white lamps have definitely proved advantages in color matching, color discrimination and high level lighting. And because these new lamps are extraordinarily cool they serve as an excellent "plus" light source in display cases and in small rooms or booths where a high level of lighting by other means might add undesirable or uncomfortable heat.

WHAT IS ITS VALUE IN COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL USES? Fluorescent lighting has added modern showmanship to many businesses with dramatic effect lighting. It attracts attention and is especially valuable in displays where daylight color value helps sell merchandise. Industrial concerns realize its value as a "plus" light source for easier seeing where production requires fine assembly, intricate operation and close inspection.

HOW TO BUY FLUORESCENT LIGHTING! Fluorescent lighting is so new and fixtures are so numerous that it is hard for the inexperienced buyer to know what to buy. At present, these fixtures are more expensive than incandescent fixtures so that getting your money's worth is important. Installation of proper auxiliary equipment is likewise important because Fluorescent Lighting is not a ready-made package but should be tailored to the lighting task it is to perform.

Before you buy, check with experienced lighting engineers or specialists. This company, which does not sell fluorescent lighting fixtures, will be glad to help and advise any customer in selecting proper fluorescent fixtures to provide the right kind of light at the lowest cost. Our staff of skilled lighting advisors are always available without cost or obligation.
